

Any rule which would lead to further consolidation of media in fewer hands would be a step away from democracy. For years Americans have decried the ways in which a few media outlets controlled the news in totalitarian countries. We must not allow the same to happen here.